Story in English

In the quiet village of Sundarpur, there lived an old man named Guruji. He was known for his wisdom and conscious (aware-जागरूक) nature, always aware of the villagers' needs. One day, a vexatious (irritating-कष्टप्रद) problem arose—a dispute over land between two families threatened the village's consensus (agreement-सहमति) and harmony.

Guruji felt great apprehension (concern-आशंका) as the conflict grew. The tension was evident (obvious-स्पष्ट) to everyone. He called a meeting, hoping to restore peace. With patience, he listened to both sides, offering no criticism (censure-आलोचना) but guiding them toward a solution.

Finally, with Guruji's help, the families reached an assent (agreement-स्वीकृति). The village elders praised his oversight (supervision-निगरानी) in resolving the issue. Guruji reminded everyone that perpetual (everlasting-लगातार) unity was their strength and that division was repugnant (contradictory-विरोधी) to their values.
